I somehow came across the original Ocean's 11. Don't expect the elaborate, intricate screenplay of the Brad Pitt version. This was the 60's, when Vegas was starting it's boom, and the strip was young.

We Are Beings of Light Ascension Now

The diagram isn't to scale because visible light, the light we see as colours, or as white light (all the colours together), makes up only 0.0001% of the whole electromagnetic spectrum. That's one thousandth of a percent. That is truly astounding! So we actually cannot see, with the naked, undeveloped eye, 99.999% of what is in the world around us.

PTERANODONS Oceans of Kansas Paleontology

The first Pteranodon specimens found in North America were discovered in the Smoky Hill Chalk of western Kansas by O.C. Marsh in 1870. The remains he collected consisted only of fragments of the long wing bones. However, they were readily comparable (though much larger) with pterodactyl remains from the Jurassic of Europe.

The Reader by Bernhard Schlink Goodreads Share book

What About the Children? The Reader is a profound exposition of the 'second generation' issues concerning moral guilt for the Holocaust. But it is, I think, also relevant more generally to the way in which human beings get ensnared incrementally into the evils of their society.
